Remember That June 9
Editorial on the DAV?
Well, Just Forget It

About the time we were publishing our June 9 editorial commending the Disabled American Veterans organization for linking its "key-finder" idea with a worthy charity the June 25 issue of Collier's magazine hit the newsstand challenging the claim that the DAV is a worthy charity.

The Collier's article is written by Bernard Tompkins, New York state senator who was co-sponsor of a series of investigations of charity rackets operating in that state. "When You Give—Are You Being Taken?" he asks in the title of his piece; and he has this to say about the DAV:

"The generous donor who thought his contribution would go to (Veteran) Bob's rehabilitation should read the following extract from the testimony of Miles H. Draper, president of the DAV Service Foundation:

"CHAIRMAN: Did the Disabled American Veterans give any aid to any veterans?"
"WITNESS: Nationally our organization does not give individual aid to veterans, except in counseling them or advising them in regard to their claim."

"CHAIRMAN: I am talking about the 21 million dollars that was raised in those last few years. Was any part of that given for direct aid to veterans?"
"WITNESS: No part of that was given in direct money to any veteran."

"What the DAV's aid to 'Bob' boiled down to was advice concerning rights he already enjoyed under the law and, if he needed it, free representation at the Veterans Administration on his claims—a service other agencies render without charge and without soliciting funds in this high-pressure manner."

"Ironically, this week-end I received a letter from the DAV, Cincinnati 6, Ohio, thanking me for a $10 personal donation—a letter which I shall ignore. For I have discarded the little license tag that the DAV sent me for my key-ring, and I have crossed the organization off my annual gift list."

"I've been 'had'—and indeed all of us are some time or other. When charity goes far from home it is hard to keep up with."

"But I have forthrightly set the record straight as to what The Star published June 9."

The DAV may employ a few disabled veterans in its tag-making factory, but outside of a little lip service none of its effort or money goes to the rehabilitation of crippled veterans generally. And so from here on you can throw away the DAV "appeal" letters, regardless of their imposing—but hollow—claims.

Search for Kidnap Money Continues

PHOENIX, Ariz. (U)—Daniel J. Marsin, 41, charged with kidnapping the wife of wealthy industrialist for $75,000, sat silently in jail while officers resumed a search today for the missing ransom money.

Somewhere in the Superstition Mountains, police believed, were hidden the marked bills paid for Mrs. Evelyn Ann Smith's release by her husband Herbert.

The rocky, cactus-strewn foothills were combed by a small force of officers. They worked doggedly, moving small boulders, brush and dirt in the belief the loot had been buried.

Two days of hunting failed to turn up any clue. The search today was extended into abandoned mine shafts.

Police also were hunting a rifle and a pair of binoculars which the Smiths said they had seen the kidnaper use.

There were other unanswered questions. Mrs. Smith said she had overheard a second man after being locked in the trunk of her car. She said he discussed killing her. When she arrived at the Superstitions late Wednesday, she said, only one masked kidnaper was with her.

Negro Doctors Can Join State Staff

LITTLE ROCK — Negro doctors can now become Medical Staff members of the Arkansas Baptist Hospital here because of a decision by the hospital's board of trustees last week.

Board Chairman Jacob L. King of Hot Springs and Dr. Howard M. Armstrong, chief of the Medical Staff, said Saturday that Negro doctors who apply for staff membership will be accepted if found qualified by the staff's credentials committee. They said no Negro doctors have applied.

The hospital's Medical Staff differs from the House Staff in that doctors assign their own patients to the hospital and treat them there. The House Staff, composed of resident physicians and interns, handles other patients.

Negro patients now are admitted to the hospital for treatment by white doctors.

Construction Spending to Set Record

WASHINGTON (U)—A government report, based upon a new look at the thriving construction industry, predicted today that spending for new construction would set an all-time record of 30 1/2 billion dollars, the peak year so far.

The new prediction, after five months of record-setting construction activity in this year, reversed the earlier forecast made by the Commerce and Labor departments.

Last November the two government units estimated construction this year would fall about 2 per cent under the 1953 record level. The dollar total predicted last November for 1954 was 34 billion dollars, 2 billion under the new forecast.

The more optimistic outlook the report said, was based mainly on the high level of new home building so far this year. However, most other major categories of construction, with the exception of federally financed buildings, also showed predicted gains over 1953.

The construction forecast was particularly significant in that it pointed to no slackening of employment in this major field of jobs during the balance of this year.

Today's report included these details:

1. Current indications are that 1,080,000 new, private nonfarm dwelling units will be started this year. It was estimated that new, nonfarm residential building, along with spending for additions and alterations would account this year for $12,125,000,000 or 2 per cent more than the record in 1953.

2. Outlays for new commercial construction of all type are expected to exceed two billion dollars for the first time.
3. Religious building and private educational building will also set new records at about $25 million dollars each.

4. A per cent to a total of $11,850,000,000, which is on a long-term downward trend, was expected to drop 13 per cent to $10,350,000,000 from the 1953 record of $22,229,000,000.
5. Outlays for new public construction were expected to rise by 4 per cent to a total of $11,850,000,000 despite declines in publicly financed residential building and in military and naval conservation and development construction.

In Russia When the Hillbillies See a Girl They Like They Just Kidnap and Marry Her

Moscow (U)—See a gal that strikes your fancy?
Well, don't go wastin' time a-courtin' and asking her consent. Just gallop out and carry her off. If you need help because she isn't alone, just whistle up a pack of your buddies.

That's the way the hillbillies of the Soviet Union down in the Caucasus Mountains have been doing it for generations.

But the Communist press in Moscow says it's got to stop — the gal should be courted right and given a chance to say yes or no.

Now take the case of Tamara, reports Komsomol Pravda, which often criticizes and conditions in the United States. Tamara was a teacher in the mountain village of Malka, in the Kabardinski au-

Democrats Are Cold to Move by Flanders

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (U)—A hands-off policy adopted by the Senate Democratic leadership today apparently all but doomed a move by Sen. Flanders (R-Vt.) to strip Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) of his investigating chairmanships.

Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican leader, has already made it abundantly clear that—as a representative of the GOP administration—he does not want to move against McCarthy in the way Flanders suggested on the floor of the Senate last Friday.

However, a remaining key factor, in a Senate whose Democrats actually outnumber Republicans 48-47, was the attitude to be taken by members of the minority party.

While Sen. Lyndon P. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, would make no public statement on the issue, he was reliably reported today to have told party colleagues he regards McCarthy as a "Republican problem."

Apparently Johnson is advising Democrats not to give any encouragement to Flanders, who has said he will move by mid-July for action on a motion to strip McCarthy of his chairmanship unless the Wisconsin senator answers questions raised in 1952 by a Senate elections subcommittee about his financial affairs.

Bride of Tin Heir Simply Disappears

ROME (U)—Jaline Ortiz Patino, 25-year-old nephew of Bolivian Tin Baron Antenor Patino, said today that his Manhattan debutante bride of two months vanished on Thursday from the Rome clinic where she was recovering from an overdose of sleeping pills.

The handsome tin heir told a press conference in his luxury suite in the Grand hotel that his bride, the former Joanne Connelly, "just got in a cab and disappeared."

He married the 23-year-old Manhattan debutante in Paris last April 22.

He said she took with her from the clinic all her clothes, jewels and 25,000 Swiss francs (about $4,600).

The former Miss Connelly is a strikingly beautiful, brown-eyed blonde. She was featured on the cover of an issue of Life magazine as the most beautiful debutante of the 1947-48 season.

She married Patino five months after her divorce from American banker-sportsman Robert Sweeney.

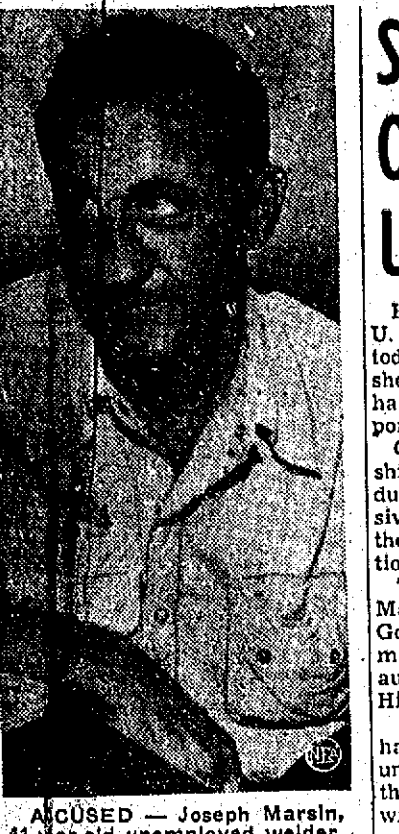

Young Patino is a cousin of Isabel Patino who died in Paris last May after a "Romeo and Juliet" elopement with wealthy Englishman Jimmy Goldsmith.

"Shortly after I married I discovered my wife had the habit of taking sleeping pills. She also took dextroline in order to keep her weight down and to avoid eating and benzedrine (a minor stimulant). The result was that every night she was in a coma . . .

"She is my wife — my first wife — and I tried to keep her from killing herself with these pills," Patino said.

Fire Destroys 59 Finely Bred Horses

CHICAGO (U)—Fire in a riding stable last night killed 59 horses many of them finely-bred hunters owned by socialite families.

Swiss Shells for Guatemala Held Up in Germany

HAMBURG, Germany — The U. S. High Commission announced today six tons of Swiss anti-aircraft shells being shipped to Guatemala have been held up in this free port.

German authorities said the shipment was listed as 20 mm. dummies — shells without explosives. But American officials said they believed it was live ammunition.

The consignment arrived here May 20 for shipment aboard the German vessel Coburg to Guatemala. It was stopped by German authorities on request of the U.S. High Commission.

Free port official Albert Bozen hard said the shipment "is now under supervision of free port authorities and the senders can do with it what they want."

"As far as we know," he said, "the consignment consists only of shells without explosives."

Lassen and Co., an import-export firm, said it received the shells from a Swiss firm.

"It's dummy ammunition," a Lassen spokesman explained. "It says so on the shipping declaration."

The U. S. government regards shipments of arms to leftist-leaning Guatemala as a threat to the security of the Panama Canal.

U. S. authorities throughout the world have been ordered to prevent the flow of arms to the Central American country following the delivery recently of a 10 million dollar shipment to Guatemala from Poland aboard a Swedish ship.

Bodies of Two Found at Petit Jean

MORRILLTON (U)—The bodies of two Little Rock boys were recovered from a lake on Petit Jean Mountain late last night about 10 hours after they dashed from a bathhouse for a swim.

County Coroner Bob Harris identified the boys as Kenneth Stiles, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Stiles, and C. A. Reifsch, 6, son of Mrs. Maxine Reifsch.

A rescue squad found the bodies near a dam which separates the swimming area from the rest of the lake. The discovery ended hours of searching by about 200 persons.

The boys disappeared about 11 a. m. They were not seen after they dressed for a swim and ran out of the bathhouse. The elder Stiles, unable to find the boys after a 45-minute search, spread the alarm.

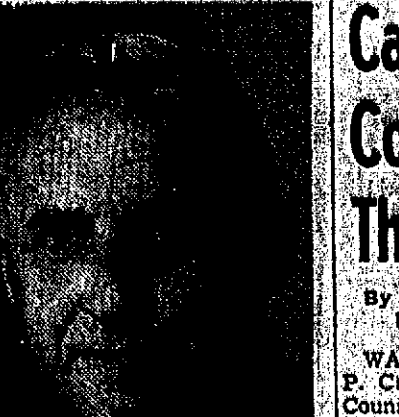

Volunteers and the Morrillton unit of the Arkansas National Guard searched the woods and dragged waters of the lake in search of the missing boys. Failure to recover the bodies during early attempts to drag the lake left some hope that they only were lost in surrounding woods.

Police said the boys apparently were walking along the dam and fell into the water.

B&PW Clubs Name New Officers

Perlman has been serving as executive vice president of the Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad.

WASHINGTON (U)—House and Senate leaders reported today after their weekly legislative conference with President Eisenhower that they expect Congress to adjourn July 31.

Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland (Calif.) and House GOP Floor Leader Charles A. Halleck (Ind.) said they thought Congress would clean up its work by that deadline unless an emergency develops.

"In the Senate, we believe the schedule will permit us to adjourn by July 31," Knowland said.

"The House even may be able to take a week or so off in lieu of three day recesses," Halleck said.

The House was expected to pass the year's last regular appropriation for the District of Columbia today.

Halleck said he expected the House Rules committee tomorrow to reconsider its action of last week on the administration's housing bill. He said he thought the committee would drop its stand against any compromise on public housing at this time. The Senate approved President Eisenhower's request for authority to build 140,000 public-housing units over a four-year period, but the House voted for no public housing.

Young plans to take of Railway.

NEW YORK (U)—Texas Financier Robert R. Young formally takes over today the New York Central railroad, a $2,000,000,000 property climaxing a bitter proxy battle with William White.

White's control of the world's second largest railroad ends this morning in Albany, N. Y., when he as president to that moment—announces the results of ballots cast by shareholders last May 28. It already has leaked out that Young's forces were favored by more than 1,000,000 votes.

Young and his new board of directors—13 men and one woman—met this morning at his office in the Chrysler Building in mid-town Manhattan. After lunch, they planned to march in a body a few blocks north and east to 250 Park Avenue, the main office of New York Central, and resume their meeting in the railroad's board room.

Carr Testimony Conflicts With That of Stevens

By RAYMOND LAHR and HERBERT FOSTER
WASHINGTON (U)—Francis P. Carr testified today that Army Counselor John G. Adams constantly referred to Pvt. G. David Schine as a "hostage" and suggested Schine would get better treatment if Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy called off his Army investigation.

Carr, executive director of McCarthy's Communist-hunting Senate subcommittee, also quoted Roy M. Cohn as saying Adams offered to "trade us some homosexuals in the Air Force" for an advance upon where the next investigation of the Army would be.

Carr's sworn testimony on the 33rd day of the Army-McCarthy hearings supported in detail the McCarthy side's charge that Adams and Army Secretary Robert M. Stevens were at times very friendly toward Schine but later turned his presence as a private in the Army as a club under the McCarthy subcommittee. Adams and Stevens have denied under oath both the general charge and the specificity of the incident.

Carr also testified that Adams told him that high officials in the administration were calling him to the Army's dispute with McCarthy. He quoted Adams as saying in January that the Army's resistance to letting its own board members appear before McCarthy subcommittee was a high administration decision.

Again on March 5 Carr said Adams told him that the matter had been taken out of his hands entirely and was a high policy matter.

Adams testified at the hearing last month that Presidential assistant Sherman Adams instructed him at a meeting of top administration officials on Jan. 27 to make a written record of Army's troubles with the McCarthy committee.

Carr went on to say that Adams in the 38th day of the McCarthy hearings and gave his testimony of the hearing. He said a substitute for McCarthy was secured temporarily to remove from a week and speaking trip to the Midwest.

Schine, until he was drafted Nov. 3, was unpaid chief consultant to the McCarthy subcommittee. Cohn, Schine's close personal friend, is chief counsel of the subcommittee.

Carr said the subject of homosexuals in the Air Force came up during an executive hearing on Dec. 1.

He said Adams "had a piece of paper" on which some one had sketched in the roughness of the United States map, divided into nine rectangles.

Carr said he asked Cohn what was going on and Cohn replied "John's trying to trade us some homosexuals in the Air Force for information on our future investigations."

Thomas Brewitt, assistant subcommittee counsel, said Adams confirmed or denied Cohn's statement on "restrained silence." Carr said he didn't hear Adams say anything.

Tribunal Not to Prevent Probe Review

By LEON HATCH
LITTLE ROCK (U)—The Arkansas Supreme Court today refused to prevent Pulaski Circuit Judge J. Mitchell Connel from reviewing the State Board of Medical Board's conduct of an investigation into validity of a medical license held by Dr. Jacob S. Schirmer of Corning.

In a related case the Supreme Court set aside a Pulaski Circuit Court order requiring the board to hold open hearings in its investigation.

In the latter case the Supreme Court said a group of Little Rock newspaper men and television reporters who obtained the Circuit Court order were in the wrong court.

Circuit Court already had assumed jurisdiction and the Supreme Court said it was not proper for the Circuit Court to assume jurisdiction. The Supreme Court said the Circuit Court should have gone to the Supreme Court for a writ of habeas corpus for any relief to which they might be entitled.

Miss Sally Jo Franks becomes bride of Airman 2nd Class C. F. Clark. Miss Sally Jo Franks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Franks of Texarkana, and Airman 2nd Class Charles Frederick Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Clark of El Dorado, former residents of Hope, were married June 5th at the Central Baptist Church in Texarkana.

Elder D. O. Sliver officiated at the double ring wedding service. The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a waltz length white gown designed with a bouffant skirt which fell in layers of white embroidered nylon over plain white nylon underlaid with white taffeta. The strapless shirred bodice was covered with a fitted jacket of embroidered tulle with long sleeves coming to points over the hands. The bridal veil was of finger-length caught to a Juliet cap embroidered to match the dress and edged with pleated nylon tulle and tiny pearls. She carried out the traditional "something old, new, borrowed and blue," and held a white Bible topped with a white orchid and Stephanotis and white satin streamers.

Matron of honor was Mrs. John Pinkerton. She wore a waltz length dress of blue embroidered or gandy over taffeta, and carried a after I was kidnaped I agreed to marry him." The prosecutor decided to take her at her word.

But here's what really happened. The paper quotes the unkidnaped sister: "Tamara was kidnaped. She became afraid for the future and agreed to marry him."

The paper cites the case of two other recently kidnaped bodies and says "the girls in the mountain areas live in constant fear of being kidnaped. And once they are thus forced to marry the man their life is ruined."

Of the brothers who kidnaped Tamara, it says they committed "a hoodlun deed typical of the feudal mode of life of pre-revolutionary Kabardinski."

"Why is the work of the public prosecutor's office not so organized as to defend the honor of Kabardinski and its women? Why does it not punish those who violate the law — who kidnap people? And why does it not protect those who need protection?"

But the most unkind blow of all is delivered by that sister left on the path. She writes: "If my sister Tamara agreed to marry this man, I will say to everybody that she is unworthy of the principles of a Komsomol member. She victimizes herself for the sake of her feudal survival."

Poor Tamara.

bouquet of pink Esther Reed daisies. A matching bandeaux graced her hair.

James Honeycutt, Bossier City, La., served as best man with John Pinkerton and Raymond Braswell as ushers. Candles were lighted by Allen Franks, brother of the bride. Basket sprays of white gladioli, potted palms, and floor candelabra holding white tapers made a background for the bridal party.

Miss Kathryn Osborne, organist, presented several selections and accompanied Joe Lavender who sang "Oh Promise Me." The traditional wedding marches were used, and "O Perfect Love" was played softly during the ceremony.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Franks was gowned in pink lace with matching accessories and a white carnation corsage. Mrs. Clark chose navy blue lace with navy accessories and she also wore white carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. The table, covered with white nylon net over white satin, was centered with an arrangement of white stock, candy tuft, and pink Esther Reed daisies. Candelabra holding white tapers completed the pink and white theme.

A three tiered wedding cake was served with Mrs. J. R. Shultz, Nashville, Ark., aunt of the bride; Mrs. Allen Franks, sister-in-law of the bride; and Mrs. Olin Purcell of Hope, aunt of the bridegroom, presiding at the table.

After the wedding trip to Hot Springs, the couple will be at home in Fayetteville, N. C., where Mr. Clark is serving with the United States Air Force. For traveling, the bride chose a powder blue linen suit trimmed with white, with white accessories, and a white orchid corsage.

Mrs. Clark is a graduate of Texarkana Arkansas High School. Mr. Clark is a graduate of Hope High School.

TOUR OF THE MONTH (NORTHEAST)

Least known and least appreciated of any section of Arkansas is the northeast corner of the state, bordered roughly by Highway 70 on the south and Highway 65-14 on the west. It is flat, to be sure, but full of surprises. Crowley's Ridge State Park, for example, is on the only rise of ground between the Mississippi and the Ozarks... a ridge which extends for 100 miles from the Missouri border straight south. This is a rise left by the sudden changing of the course of the Mississippi. They boast of their fishing, too, in the many lakes and rivers that cobweb the region and point to the Blanchard Springs area as the site of one of the most original tourist promotion ideas in America. Here, civic clubs and citizens, led by cross-bow champion George Moore and novelist Harold Sherman, are creating a "Land of the Cross-Bow" complete with archery targets, bowling greens and ancient taverns, in depiction of "merry old England," when knighthood and the cross-bow were in flower. Batesville holds a fabulous water carnival each year (3), while the famous lace curtain waterfall at Blanchard Springs fascinates thousands (1). Whole families spend the day at Crowley's Ridge State Park (2) and if starting off from Little Rock are coming to the northeast from any direction, Little Rock's old State Capitol (4) is a famous attraction. Northeast Arkansas welcomes you.

DOROTHY DIX Romance Of The Past

Dear Miss Dix: Could I enlist your help for two friends of mine? Both realized the love of their lives had never died, that their marriages were mistakes, and that they could never be happy apart. They had discussed marriage, both sets of parents objected because they were too young. So they parted. Jim married and went into the Army, serving in World War II. Jane also married. Each had three children. Two years ago after 15 years of

One Star Has No Yen to Sign in Movies

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (This may hurt Hollywood's feelings, but here's a star who has no yen to sign with the studios.)

He's Ralph Meeker, member of the torn T-shirt school of acting and star of "Picnic," the prize-winning play that is appearing here. The hit of Broadway as the animalistic hero of the show, he has been sought for film roles by the studios. As of now, he has no plans for pictures.

"This may sound like heresy," he comments, "but I'm not eager to sign up with any studio. If I do, I'll end up having to do pictures I don't like. It's either that or go on suspension, and I wouldn't want that. I like to eat."

"I like the stage. I would like to do some pictures, but I'd also want to be able to do plays when I wanted."

I saw Meeker at his hotel, the fabled Garden of Allah, which is said to be haunted by the shades of F. Scott Fitzgerald, Robert Benchley and other literary greats who once lived there. The actor was in characteristic condition; he lolled beside the pool in a brief bathing suit.

Throughout most of his career, Meeker has worn less clothing than Marilyn Monroe. In the original "Mister Roberts" cast, his costume was one of the marauding sailors was one strategic strip of paper. He replaced Marlon Brando as the bare-chested Pole in "A Streetcar Named Desire," then came to Hollywood to play a prizefighter, among other things. During the first act of "Picnic," he wears only light jeans.

Do such exhibitions embarrass him?

"Not any more," he said. "I was embarrassed in 'Roberts' because my costume was practically nothing. But I found out that if I was embarrassed, the audience was too. So I got over it."

"The only trouble is with the theaters. Some of them can be pretty cold backstage. When I'm playing a dratty theater in the wintertime, it's pretty hard to get across the idea that I'm sweating on a hot day."

Meeker left a good-paying contract at MGM to return to the stage, and I asked him why.

"Because I wasn't happy with the pictures I was getting," he said. "Some of them were pretty miserable like 'Somebody Loves Me' and 'Glory Alley' and 'Code Two.' I got one pretty good one in 'Jeopardy,' and 'Naked Spur' wasn't too bad. But I was unhappy and asked to get out of the contract again and again. They finally let me go."

No Longer "Kids"

Answer: These "kids," according to my estimate, are now in their thirties. Having acquired responsibilities, they are no longer in a position to follow blindly the dictates of their hearts. I can well understand your concern over them. But surely you can understand that any chance of returning to the emotional state of their teens is impossible.

Suppose they surrendered selling to the love they so firmly protect; could either one ever forget the betrayed spouse, the abandoned children? No, they couldn't. And the regrets that would come in a few years would be bitter. As a friend, you'll make every effort to help resolve a sense of duty for them both. The happiness they seek can never be built on the ruins of broken homes. Happiness for them lies in a return — complete in every respect — to their families. It's the easy course, but in time both will be very thankful they took it. The alternative is a life beset by conscience, mutual reproaches, said or unsaid loss of the children's respect, and quite possibly of friends. Encourage them to take the path of honor.

Dear Miss Dix: My husband is the youngest of four children. He is only 30 and has always been spoiled by his parents. We've been married six years, and out on our families. We both work, so on time for visiting. On Sunday afternoon, though almost every week he takes his mother on an arranged shopping expedition at least once a week. Yet he is sulky if I insist on our visiting my folks Sunday afternoon. He feels that he should be with his parents. How can I solve this constant argument?

Answer: On the evenings when your husband takes his mother shopping, why not go to visit your parents alone, then handle the mutual visits to each side of the family by alternating Sunday dinners with them? Let your husband know that unless he's agreeable to you people, you're not going out of town. You'll be nice to his family, but sets of parents should be accorded equal consideration from you and your husband.

DOGS
Tom Farley
Dogs Loyal to Dogs, Too

Although stories of dogs' devotion to man are common, stories of devotion to other dogs are rare. However, just after reading an account of an unusual happening of this type in a magazine published nearly a hundred years ago, history repeated itself this time in Australia.

The old magazine told of two dogs that "were in the practice of going out together to hunt squirrels on the mountain near New York." In pursuit of his quarry, one of the dogs caught his head between two rocks and was unable to free himself.

For the next eight days the other dog tried by signs to bring human help to his trapped friend, but was unable to get anyone to follow him into the woods. When at last help did come they found the trapped dog terribly hurt from efforts to free himself, but alive and far from starved. For he had obviously been well fed — the ground around him was covered with bones and scraps of food that had been brought him by his pal.

And now comes the report from Melbourne of a dog owner who tells how two collies trapped in an abandoned mine shaft were kept alive by a third collie which carried food to them each day.

Mrs. Irene Hughes, who lives near Melbourne, said that recently her valuable collie disappeared and after two weeks she noticed her third collie leaving the house with a piece of meat in his mouth. She followed and saw the dog drop the food down the shaft. In it were the missing dogs.

Dog and cat disease is carried from one animal to another by dark beetles.

Stan, Haddix Carrying Load for Cardinals

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Imagine where the St. Louis Cardinals would be today without The Man and The Kitten.

The Man of course, is Stan Musial, the greatest hitter in the National League. The Kitten is Harvey Haddix, the best pitcher in the senior circuit.

Stan The Man and Harvey The Kitten combined their talents yesterday to give the Cardinals their first double-header victory of the season. Haddix hurled his second straight shutout and his 10th victory as the Cards defeated Pittsburgh 5-0 in the first game. Musial, who drove in two runs in the opener with a pair of singles snapped a 3-3 tie in the second game with his 21st home run. The Cards went on to win 5-3.

The double victory moved the Cardinals into fifth place but they still trail the league leaders by 6½ games. The Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants, tied for first place, swept their double-headers. Scoring all their runs in the seventh inning, the Dodgers overcame a 4-0 deficit to edge out Cincinnati 6-5 in the opener and came back to run over the Redlegs 14-2 in the nightcap. The Giants thrashed the Cubs 9-3 and 9-4. Breaking through for six runs in the 11th to snap a 3-3 tie in the first game.

The twin triumphs enabled the Dodgers and Giants to open up a ½ game bulge on their nearest pursuers Milwaukee and Philadelphia. The Braves tied the Phils for third place, defeating them 9-5 for Warren Spahn's seventh victory.

Cleveland used the lowly Boston Red Sox to boost its American League lead to 1½ games over the Chicago White Sox and 3½ over the New York Yankees. The Indians' 4-1 and 9-1 triumphs ran their latest victory string to four in a row.

After dropping their sixth straight decision to the Yankees, 4-2 in the opener of a doubleheader, the White Sox bounced back and thrashed the world champions 8-0. Virgil Trucks turned in his ninth triumph in the nightcap.

The Philadelphia Athletics, who had been fighting among themselves, decided to carry some of it to the opposition and as a result captured two come-from-behind victories from the Detroit Tigers 4-3 and 6-4. The double win moved the Athletics out of the cellar only half a game behind the sixthplace Baltimore Orioles.

Bob Porterfield shut out Baltimore 4-0 after the Orioles had clubbed five Washington pitchers for 14 hits to take the opener 6-4. Haddix, the 28-year-old Cardinal "stopper," struck out 10 Pirates and permitted only three singles as he rolled up his eighth straight victory. The major-league winner, now owns a seven game complete games, half the total of the entire Cardinals' staff.

Musial, with four hits in nine times at bat, boosted his batting mark to .370, second only to Duke Snider's .378. Musial leads the majors with 21 homers and 69 runs batted in.

Movies Mean Cash in Big Fight

NEW ORK (P) — If Rocky Marciano and Ezzard Charles stage a sensational fight at Yankee Stadium Thursday night in their heavyweight title match, the movie alone could be worth an extra $300,000.

Because there will be no home television, the movies increase in value. The fact that some 200,000 will see the show on theatre TV in 61 theaters in 45 cities wouldn't make too much difference.

Marciano, unbeaten in 45 pro fights remains a 3½ to 1 favorite to turn back the challenge of the 32-year-old former champ and 2½ to 1 to knock him out.

Because the International Boxing Club had trouble stopping radio sales from "bootlegging" previous non-TV fights by use of pound by pound accounts, they sold the radio rights to this fight (ABC).

Hogan, Snead Pick Each Other

SPRINGFIELD, N. J. (UP) — Ben Hogan and Sam Snead paid each other a compliment today — they picked each other to win the U. S. Open Golf Tournament which opens here on Thursday.

Hogan, now recovered from a recent virus attack, is the defending champion and will be seeking a record fifth triumph in this coveted tournament. He showed he is back in form by equalling the course record of eight-under-par 64 at Baltusrol, the championship course, on Saturday.

Hogan fired that round on National "Golf Day" on which golfers all over the nation pay a fee to charity and play one round "against" Hogan. If their score, minus a handicap, is better than his, they get a button inscribed "I Beat Ben Hogan."

Hogan birdied six of the first seven holes and drew his only bogey on the 15th hole.

Cooper Scores First Major Golf Victory

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (P) — The golf stars along the big time tournament trail were calling Pete Cooper "Mr. Consistency" today as they turned their attention to this week's National Open at Baltusrol in Springfield, N. J.

Cooper, a likeable 39-year-old middle-aged veteran of golf, scored his first victory of the year in Professional Golfers Assn. tournament here yesterday when he won the $15,000 Virginia Beach Open.

He picked up top money of $2,400 with his consistency. He was the only player in the 72-hole scramble over the par 696,065 yard Cavalier Yacht and Country Club layout who fired four subpar rounds. He shot 67 64-64-68 for a 13 under par 263.

Cooper, who left immediately for Baltusrol to see if his consistency would continue, figures he was "a little lucky" in beating out Tommy Bolt of Houston, Tex., and Doug Ford of Klamath Lake, N. Y.

Bolt, who had the championship in the palm of his hand until the pressure got the best of him on the final hole, took second and $1,800 with a 264. Ford, defending champion, was third with 265 and pocketed $1,400.

Bolt entered the final round tied with Shelley Naffield of Chicopee, Mass., and lost out when he lifted his tee shot from the 200-yard 18th hole into the waters of Linkhorn Bay, which flanks the 18th green.

Art Wall of Pocomo Manor, Pa., and Freddie Haas Jr. of New Orleans posted four-round totals of 266 for a fourth place tie. Mayfield, George Fazio of Clementon, N. J., and Paul McGuire of Wichita, Kan., all finished with 269 for a sixth-place deadlock.

Louis Thinks Charles Is Wrong
By JACK HAND
MONTICELLO, N. Y. (P) — Joe Louis thinks Ezzard Charles is training for the wrong kind of fight in his bid to win back the heavyweight title in his bout with Rocky Marciano Thursday night at Yankee Stadium.

The Bomber watched Charles go five rounds yesterday, pressing the attack as though he meant to carry the fight to Rocky.

"You don't go in there and mix with Marciano," said the former champ, who called Marciano "stale" Saturday. In answer to a question, Louis admitted it would be suicide for Charles to mix with the champ.

"The way to beat Marciano should be to stick with your left and then throw the right when he misses. If Charles fights Rocky like he fought against me, he could beat Marciano. But he doesn't seem to be training for that kind of fight."

Tom Tannas, one of Charles' co-managers, said the 32-year-old Cincinnati Negro was perfectly tuned for his best fight.

"Mentally he was never better," he said. And he's just as good physically as when he fought Louis.

Charles planned one more workout, and possibly two, before he breaks camp Wednesday afternoon. His five round drill Sunday boosted his training total to 143 rounds.

Marciano finished the heavy workout yesterday, going two rounds with Keene Simmons for a total of 183 rounds since April 2. He will loosen up with a little shadow boxing to hold the edge.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (P) — The must assume that the New York Giants had the record book before them when they outdid a slow of other clubs and landed Paul Giel, the University of Minnesota pitcher, with a whopping $60,000 bonus.

They must have known from reading the book that only one pitcher in the history of the game has made the jump direct from the campus to the big leagues and become a recognized star. That was Ted Lyons, who joined the Chicago White Sox out of Baylor in 1923 and never looked back.

Plenty of others have, of course, made the grade after a period of seasoning in the minors. Robin Roberts of the Phils, who started for Michigan State, is a notable recent example of that. Any number of college infielders and outfielders have become immediate major league regulars too, and it is necessary to look no further back than Harvey Kuenn, Detroit's shortstopping jewel out of Wisconsin, to prove that.

But Lyons' 23 years of pitching under the big tent without a trip out stands unique. He's coaching Brooklyn's pitchers now and working batting practice, and they swear that his knuckle ball still is good enough to get him by for several innings against the average club.

Unless Giel is another Lyons and the odds seem to be against it, the Giants are taking a terrific gamble. Under the bonus rule, they can't farm him out for at least two years. A friend of ours who sees much Big Ten baseball says its better terms probably pay about Class B ball. That is a long way for pitching against big leaguers.

Al Weill, manager of Rocky Marciano, was patiently ticking off the numerous reasons why his puncher is a mortal cinch to whip Ezzard Charles.

"Finally," Al said, "Rocky's got a terrific incentive to be the first man ever to beat three former world champions Joe Louis, Joe Walcott and now Charles. It's never been done before."

We've looked it up since, and you've got yourself a scoop there, Al. Except that fellow Louis stopped Primo Carnera, Max Baer, Jack Sharkey and Max Baer, all exchamps.

And still we hear folks ask, "Who did Louis ever lick?"

WINDSOR, England. (UP) — Queen Elizabeth today formally invested her first minister Prime Minister Winston Churchill with the Order of the Garter — the highest personal honor a British monarch can bestow.

This morning, in a private investiture ceremony in the throne room of ancient Windsor castle, the young queen handed Churchill the golden insignia of the Order of the Garter and personally knelt below his left knee the blue velvet garter of the order. She planned to his chest the star of the garter and hung around his neck the golden collar.

Clifton Webb Will Not Go Back to Stage

WOOD "In the stage?"

Clifton Webb reflected. "No. I don't think I shall ever return to the stage."

He stated himself in his spare time, tastefully decorated room on the set of "A Woman's World." He had slipped on a piece of cardboard over his head and wore dark glasses. The makeup would not be off. From a vacuum bottle he poured some milk. "Ugh," he said.

He declined a cigarette. He said he cannot do without them. The doctor took me to the hospital and diagnosed the ulcer. He told me to quit smoking. I quit for two whole days, and I was miserable. The slightest noise would make me jump. Finally the doctor told me to smoke, as long as I could, do it on an empty stomach.

He slipped the milk and the voice from the cigarette. He talked about his career, past and present.

He said he does not like about the century, culture; its preoccupations with violence.

He said: "Three Coins in the Fountain," he commented. "It is a gentle sort of thing. Nobody hurt in the end."

But that is all too rare now. The movies concentrate on the "mayhem" and other forms of violence. Television is the same. It has a terrible effect on children.

On the stage has been taken over by the so-called realism. The art of high comedy, such as I have used to do, is virtually nonexistent. I am happy to say that Miss Tina Claire returned Broadway last season in "The Confidential Clerk." She was magnificent. But such artistry is seen only seldom.

Webb said he had no yen to return to the legitimate theater. He thrived for more than 40 years. He made his debut as a comedian in 1903.

When I go to plays in New York, he said, "I look up at the ceiling and say, 'You poor devils, you have to do the same thing over and over again, if it's Saturday or Sunday.'"

He said he was not in a hurry to play it over and over again for two years or more. If he were in a flop, his ego is damaged. "You can't win either way," he said.

River Delta Sealed Off by Commies

By LOUIS GUILBERT

HANOI, Indochina (UP). Communist forces virtually have sealed off the French-held Red River delta, official sources said today.

The sources said first elements of Communist columns marching westward from Dien Bien Phu reached Thanh Hoa, 75 miles south of Hanoi.

The bulk of Red units totalling several battalions from various units were reported only two days' march behind.

Thanh Hoa is one of the oldest and strongest Communist Viet Nam bases in North Indochina situated near the coast and straddling the coastal road and railroad.

The effect of the move to Thanh Hoa is to form a horseshoe around the Red River valley, with the horseshoe ring extends from the uppermost delta plains, westward to the delta point between the Black and Red rivers, and then southeast along the mountain range that protect the delta's southern edge.

Communist Viet Minh Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap has an estimated 200,000 divisions in this semi-circle around the expected drive on Hanoi and Haiphong.

Meanwhile, far to the west, French pilots in American-supplied planes blasted some of the 100,000 Communist regular troops and guerrillas in that portion of the Red River delta.

A French high command spokesman said the bombers rocked rebel bases in the northeast section of Indochina's great rice bowl, the hardest at stickpiles in the Phu and Co Noi.

Heavy blows also were struck along Route 13 which runs through low-lying marshlands about 30 miles northeast of Hanoi through Phu Lang Thuong.

Attacks followed the loss of two important delta points which lent urgency to talks in Hanoi involving Supreme Commander Gen. Paul Ely; his deputy Gen. Raoul Salan, and northern Commander Gen. Rene Cogny.

He worked on his strategy to seal the vital delta from Red River to Nguyen Giap's divisions which reported only 40 miles from the delta triangle, amid these attacks.

French deputies already were meeting on who will succeed Premier Joseph Laniel. The government faces perhaps a vote of confidence tomorrow.

The British demanded the Communist bloc to show willingness to compromise on Indochina or the Geneva peace talks.

It was learned in Washington that French agent Francis Ameri said the French government said it would be unable to continue

CONGRESS WILL MEET UNDER "NEW" FLAG—Vice President Richard M. Nixon, right, accepts a new 8'x12' American flag from American Legion National Commander Arthur J. Connell, on behalf of Congress, in a ceremony on the capitol steps. The new colors will fly over the capitol for 24 hours on Flag Day, June 14. New flag is held by Legionnaires in background.

STREET ROD

The rods were purring, the sound of their mellow exhaust, a strong song of invitation to forget everything in the sound of their singing on the open road. There would be drags, car against car, driver against driver, and the long run home, and the race for town. Link was watching Ricky, with the bold look of a leader.

"You... you go on without me," Ricky said.

"Come on, Ricky!" Jerry yelled. "We need you!"

"Gotta work!" Ricky yelled back. "Gotta get my coupe in shape for the show!"

Link didn't wait to argue. He cracked his throttle and was off with a squeal of tires and a roar of power. The others jumped after him. They circled the square and headed out of town.

Ricky stared at the DT sticker on his windshield. He laughed bitterly. "The only member," he said, pointing to the sticker. "Big deal."

"It will be," Sharon said. "If you stick you'll find others to follow. If the fellows see that you won't quit, they'll come back. And if you win a prize, they'll all want to be in for next year."

Ricky nodded, but not very enthusiastically. "Looks like I'm left with you for a helper. Still want in?"

"Yes," He grinned. "Got any coveralls?"

"Why?"

"Because the first thing we have to do is get down under that car and begin studying how it's put together, so we'll know how to take it apart. And we've got to get all the measurements of everything. You game?"

"It sounds like fun."

"You'll think so when the dirt and grime starts falling in your face."

She wrinkled her nose at him. "It will still look better than yours."

Mr. Madison sat at his living room desk and listened to Ricky's story.

"Dad, it's not just for me," Ricky said earnestly. "If I do good at the show, other guys will want in next year. That means they'll drive carefully, because they can't enter if they have any moving violations against them. That means we'll get a lot of guys in the DTA again, and that ought to be good for something."

Mr. Madison rubbed his temple and adjusted his glasses. "I agree, Ricky. It's a wonderful idea. It will show you whether you have talent in this field, and it will have a social value. But banks don't lend money on good deeds."

"Then I have to give it up," Ricky said mournfully. "If the bank won't..."

"The bank cashier might."

"Dad!"

"Doggone you, Ricky," his father said fondly. "do I have to beg you to let me in as a partner? I want to see what you can do, and I want to work alongside of you, if I can."

Ricky's eyes were suddenly moist. "Gee, Dad, I didn't think you... I don't know... I guess I didn't think."

"I ought to be as good with a hammer as Sharon Beuge," his father grumbled. "Even if I don't look as good in coveralls."

"Gee, Dad."

His father looked at him seriously. "You're fighting in Indochina much longer without Allied intervention. Otherwise, the French said they might be forced to accept unsatisfactory peace terms."

Nation Hit by Hot Weather

By United Press

The worst heat wave of the season baked most of the nation east of the Rockies today and sapped the strength of advancing cool air.

The muggy weather spawned thunderstorms and a tornado in the Midwest, but they offered little relief from the heat. Beaches were jammed over the weekend and drownings were numerous.

A twister ripped off the roof of a Trenton Neb., grandstand yesterday, endangering 1,000 persons watching stock car races.

Most spectators scattered before the tornado struck and none were injured. Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Olson, and their three children had the closest call when part of the grandstand landed on the car in which they were sitting.

Under the headline a long story told not only about Ricky and his plans, but also mentioned the Dellville Timing Association, the sponsoring group.

The results, Ricky gathered from the story were quick and amazing. The first phone call to him was from the local body shop, offering him use of their facilities, advice, and some labor.

The next caller was from one of the service stations. He offered Ricky free gas and oil.

The third call was from the big garage in Dellville, also offering space, tools and parts at dealer's prices.

A few days later the Booster Club collected $50 to help costs, and Ricky's biggest thrill came when Sherm dropped around to offer him $5 he had collected from former members of the DTA who wanted to know when the next meeting would be held. And they offered to give him any parts they had which he needed.

Ricky was overwhelmed, and at first it seemed everything had been done. All he needed now was to attend the show and walk off with his prize. It was sobering and almost disheartening to realize that the work now had to be done. The real work.

Spare time ceased to exist in Ricky's life. He lived in the garage and the body shop.

The body-shop men were interested, but they had their own work to do, and although they helped when they could, and did the most delicate jobs, the bulk of the toll fell to Ricky.

Silent Hood Over Schine Extraordinary

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (UP) — Nothing is more extraordinary in the extraordinary hearings on the Army-McCarthy fight, than the sudden hood of silence pulled down over Fvt. G. David Schine.

The Republicans won't call him to testify or he cross-examined. Yet, unless that happened, the public could not possibly learn the whole story of the fight. It can't be learned now, unless Schine formally asks to testify or the Republicans on the hearing subcommittee change their minds.

The Republicans on the subcommittee outnumber the Democrats 4-3. They voted solidly, 4-3, to keep Schine off the witness stand.

Their reason they said they wanted to limit the number of witnesses in order to speed up the hearings and get them over, perhaps this week. The Democrats protested but were outnumbered.

Schine, 27-year-old president of his father's hotel chain, was at the very center of the cyclone which had twisted the Republicans in knots for months.

Army officials charged that Sen. McCarthy and his aides sought to pressure the Army into giving special treatment to Schine before and after he was drafted last Nov. 3.

The McCarthy side countercharges the Army tried to use

Schine as a hostage to blackmail, asked for passes for Schine to Sen. McCarthy's investigating committee into abandoning its search for Communists in the Army.

The McCarthy side has described Schine as a specialist on communism, with such zeal in fighting it that he gave his services to the McCarthy staff without pay.

Now the public will get no chance to find out through questioning of Schine himself just how much he knows about communism or how he developed his interest and his desire to combat it.

He was brought into the subcommittee staff by his friend, Roy M. Cohn, chief counsel of the staff and one of the principals in this case. Last Spring Cohn and Schine visited Europe together to investigate the government's overseas information program.

And it was Cohn who repeatedly clean up some unfinished business on which Schine was specially informed. Both Cohn and McCarthy praised Schine.

What are the facts about him? Neither the seven senators on the subcommittee which must judge this case nor the public watching it on television can form their own opinions based on first-hand, detailed information brought out in direct questioning of Schine — on such obvious questions as these:

What preparation did Schine have for this job with McCarthy's subcommittee which gave him the right to dig into the operations of the government and its employees? Were his knowledge and his ideas sound? Or was he just a sophomoric busybody who thought he had some answers?

That he thought he had some answer was made clear enough by the fact that he offered the State Department before joining McCarthy's staff last year a long-range plan for psychological war on communism.

The State Department rejected it. And McCarthy himself said he had never seen the Schine plan until it was introduced in evidence at the hearings last Friday.

French Throw Back Rebel Attack

By LOUIS GUILBERT

HANOI, Indochina (UP). — Communist Indochina rebels attempted unsuccessfully to capture the most important point on the Hanoi-Haiphong supply lifeline, the French high command said today.

The rebels attacked the post of Hai Duong, 35 miles east of Hanoi, yesterday but were hurled back by French Union defenders.

Rebel guerrillas and regulars also failed to take three other posts in the Red River delta owing to fierce resistance by the garrisons.

The high command said 23 rebels were killed and 21 taken prisoner in the fighting for the posts. French forces lost 21 men over the weekend in south Indochina where rebel troops seized a post near Trang Bang in the tobacco-rubber country about 30 miles northwest of Saigon.

Supreme Commander Gen. Paul Ely was reported to have given northern commander Gen. Rene Cogny a free hand for defense of the Red River delta.

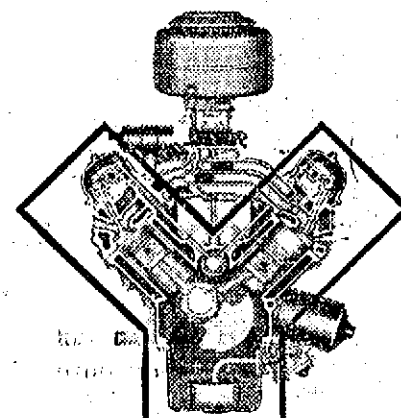

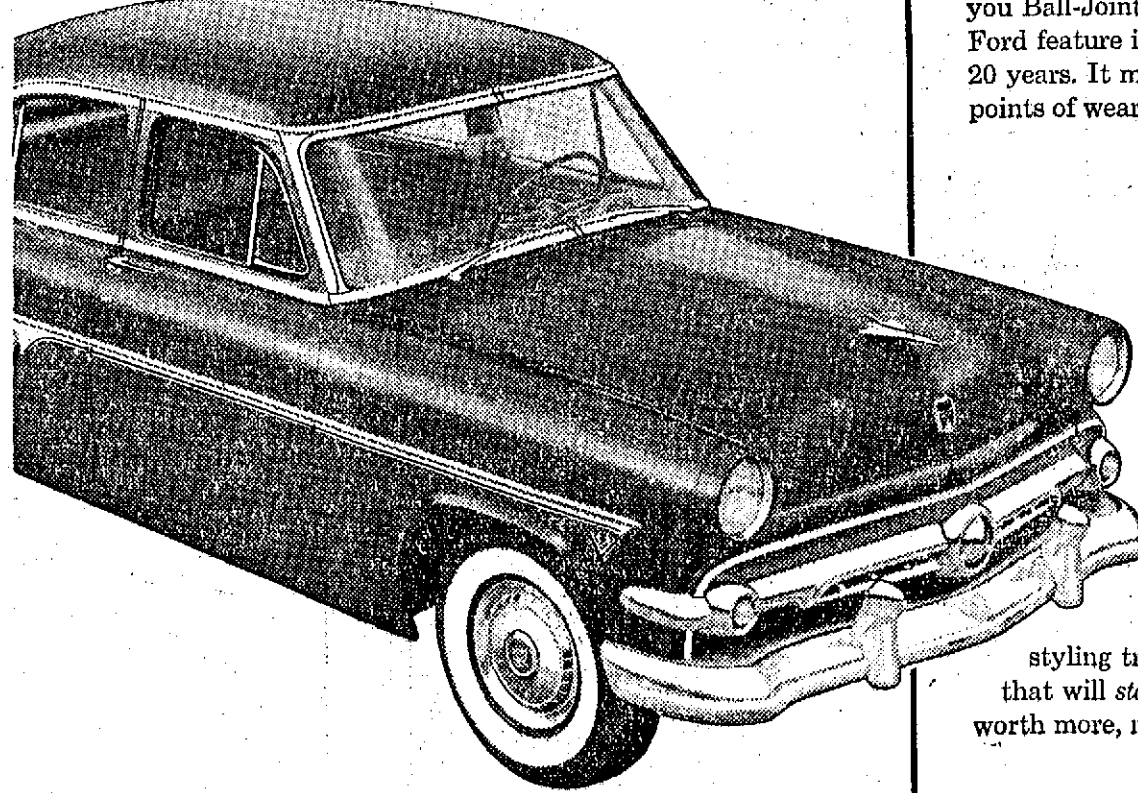

Reliable sources said Ely and Gen. Raoul Salan, his deputy, approved a number of steps Cogny has instituted to foil any assault launched by rebel Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap.
